

PEACHAM.

A Novel Auction Scheme At an Academy Entertainment—Personal.

The box supper given by the junior class at the Academy, Friday evening, was largely attended. Twenty-eight boxes were sold by auctioneer C. A. Bunker. The plan of the sale was a very unique and novel one. A sheet was used on the front of the stage for a curtain and each girl numbered and as her number was called by the auctioneer she stepped to the front and walked slowly back and forth in sheet and pillow costume behind the sheet curtain. The bidders on the other side were left to guess identity of the lady. Much merriment was afforded. There were also prize boxes on sale. After the supper Miss N. Gray and Sanford Gray furnished good music for promenading.

Harlan Renfrew went Saturday to Boston and other places for a short stay.

The box supper at South Peacham on Wednesday evening at Miss Goldie Taylor's school, was a great financial success. Nearly $14 was realized from the sale of boxes and candy. Harvey Lyford acted as auctioneer. A fine program was given by the pupils. Miss Taylor went to St. Johnsbury Saturday and used the money in the purchase of an organ for the school.

Mr. and Mrs. William Farrow gave a party Thursday evening for their son, Daniel Farrow, who has been here the past few months. About 25 people were present and a very pleasant evening enjoyed. Refreshments were served.

Miss Stella Gillilan of West Barnet visited at Herbert Blair's last week.

Fred Lamb of Greensboro was in town several days last week and moved his goods which have been stored at Owen Somers' to a farm in Walden which he has rented.

Eugene Ash, who has been here since the death of E. H. McLachlin, went to his home at Landonia, N. H., Tuesday and came back the last of the week.

O. B. Exley jammed one of his fingers very badly one day last week at the creamery.

Walter Harvey and Oliver Cowan attended an auction at Topsham, Tuesday.

Death of Edward McLachlin.

The account of the fatal accident to Edward H. McLachlin, printed last week was not written by the regular correspondent, who sends the following corrected report:

One of the most terrible accidents in recent years in this town, occurred at East Peacham, Monday morning, Oct. 16, at the farm of E. H. McLachlin. The son, William, was watering a six year old bull in the barn yard when the animal turned on him goring him severely in the side. He went to the house and told his father, who at once went to the yard armed with a base ball bat. Just what happened is not known but the housekeeper, Miss Lillian Sauters, who was looking out saw the bull toss Mr. McLachlin on his horns. She and William ran to the yard where they found the bull standing on the unconscious form of Mr. McLachlin.

When the bull saw them he turned and walked to the other side of the yard and did not offer the slightest molest when they went into the barn yard and brought out the bruised body of Mr. McLachlin. This act was a brave one as the son, William, was very severely wounded at the time. Dr. A. J. Mackay was at once called and later Dr. Allen of St. Johnsbury. It was found the bull had broken jaw and many minor bruises but he never regained consciousness and passed away Thursday morning, Oct. 19. The bull had always been perfectly docile and a great pet, and was raised on the farm. He had been used to work a great deal with a steer. On the day of the accident the animal was shot in the barn yard where he had remained since the fatal attack.

Edward H. McLachlin was the only child of William and Samantha (Hopkins) McLachlin and was born at Peacham, Aug. 28, 1860. He had always a great love for study and attended Peacham Academy and graduated from Dartmouth college in 1883. He was married August 22, 1887 to Miss Caroline Chamberlain of Westboro, Mass. Two children were born to them, William, now aged about 28 years, and Ruth, aged 12. Mrs. McLachlin died in 1901 at Bath, Maine, and her remains were brought to Peacham for burial. Mr. McLachlin has held many positions as teacher in Westboro, Brattleboro, and Groton, Mass. He was also superintendent of schools at Bath, Me. A few years ago he gave up teaching and came to his farm with his aged mother where later her death occurred. Mr. McLachlin never married but lived on the home farm with his two children and a housekeeper. The funeral was held Saturday at the home. Rev. T. A. Carlson preached, assisted by Rev. J. K. Williams. The male quartet, Fred and Dwight Stoddard, Harlan Renfrew and Hiram Rowe sang. The remains were laid to rest in the beautiful cemetery at Peacham beside those of his wife. He leaves no other nearer relatives than aunts and cousins.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Goose Girl Nov. 8 and The Missouri Girl Friday Evening.

One of the most popular book dramatizations of recent years will be presented at The Colonial on Nov. 8, when Harold McGrath's most popular novel, "The Goose Girl" will hold the boards.

George D. Baker, a young dramatist, has made the adaptation, and tells the story as clearly as when we read the printed pages. The master mind of the American consul, the stubborn justice administered by the Grand Duke when he discovers the plot of his prime minister; the longing and return of the master plumber after he has made his fortune in America to right the wrong that he has committed in a fit of pique because his "Telka" deserted him for a more favorable suitor. Our Gretchen and her royal lover in the disguise of the vintner, and Hildegard and all other characters who have won the hearts of the reader and retained in the adaptation and are made over more lovable by their truthful portrayal.

The Missouri Girl.

The Missouri Girl, which made such a hit here on its last visit, is booked for a return date, Friday, Nov. 3, and judging from the favorable comments heard on every hand from our theatregoers, the production will draw an immense crowd. Manager Raymond has assured us that the cast this season far exceeds any that he has been able to secure in the past and contains several of the leading lights of the profession.

A Mail Carrier's Load

Seems heavier when he has a weak back and kidney trouble. Fred Duehren, Mail Carrier at Atchison, Kas., says: "I have been bothered with kidney and bladder trouble and had a severe pain across my back. Whenever I carried a heavy load of mail, my kidney trouble increased. Some time ago, I started taking Foley Kidney Pills and since taking them I have gotten entirely rid of all my kidney trouble and I am as sound now as ever." C. C. Bingham, B. S. Terry, Ryegate, Stearns and Stevens, South Walden.

RECENT WEDDINGS

Ticehurst-Clark.

There was a pretty wedding Wednesday evening at half past eight, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Clark, when their daughter, Winifred, was married to Vernon B. Ticehurst. At the appointed hour, Rev. George W. C. Hill, the officiating clergyman, came through the hall followed by the groom and his best man, Earle S. Drown of Evansville, a classmate of the groom. At the same time the bride party entered through the dining room. First came the four ushers, Mrs. Ruth A. Bacon of West Heniker, N. H., Miss Harriet T. Howes of Dennis, Mass., Mrs. Orris H. Cutting and Miss Bertha S. Aiken of St. Johnsbury; the ring bearer, Myrtle Ticehurst of West Glover, a niece of the groom; the maid of honor, Miss Lydia W. Howes of Franklin, N. H., a cousin of the bride; and the brides on the arm of her father. The ushers were all dressed in white and carried ropes of white tarletan, twisted and caught at intervals with mountain ash berries. With the ropes they formed an aisle through which the bride and her attendants passed. The maid of honor wore white and carried yellow chrysanthemums. The ring was carried on the stem of a pink rose. The bride was gowned in all over embroidery trimmed with insertion and lace. She wore a veil caught with white rose buds and asparagus fern and carried a bouquet of large white chrysanthemums. While the bridal party was entering the room, Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Miss Lelia A. Humphrey of South Lunenburg. The room where the ceremony was performed was decorated with an arch of evergreen, with a lattice work of green and white an either side, under which the bridal party stood. Hemlock boughs dotted with mountain ash berries formed a back ground to the arch. In the dining room a color scheme of green and white was used in the decoration. Ice cream and cake were served with Mrs. Harry M. Nelson and Mrs. Kate E. Cowles presiding at the table and Miss Alice Nichols and Phoebe Scott as waitresses. Miss Mabel Vance distributed the wedding cake. The decorations throughout the house were in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Nelson. Mrs. Lillian H. Dolloff had charge of the gifts, and Mrs. Ruth Bacon of the guest book. The wedding gifts were numerous, including checks, solid silver, cut glass, linen, furniture and a set of dishes. Mr. and Mrs. Ticehurst spent their honeymoon at the groom's home in West Glover. They will be at home after December 1 at 14 Mt. Pleasant street.

The guests from out of town included L. Ticehurst, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Ticehurst and children, Miss Mabel Vance of West Glover; Earle S. Drown of Willoughby; Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Bacon and son of West Heniker, N. H.; Miss Harriet T. Howes of Dennis, Mass.; Miss Lydia W. Howes of Franklin, N. H.; Miss Lelia A. Humphrey of South Lunenburg.

Drew-Spencer.

A romance which had its beginning in the Philadelphia College of Osteopathy culminated Saturday afternoon in the wedding of Dr. Ira Walton Drew of 1605 North 16th St., and Dr. Margaret Spencer of 1805 N. 15th St., Philadelphia. The wedding was a very quiet one, the ceremony being performed in the Church of the Incarnation by the Rev. Norman Van Pelt Levis. The best man was W. E. Peters of Burlington, while the bridesmaid was Miss Elizabeth Spencer of Philadelphia, a sister of the bride. The bride was attired in a gown of electric blue while the bridesmaid wore navy blue. Dr. and Mrs. Drew will be at home after Nov. 21st at 323 Bryn Mawr Avenue, Cynwyd, Pa. Among those present at the ceremony were Miss Carrie S. Drew of Burlington and W. D. Hassett of Washington, D. C.

Paino-Santolucito.

James Paino, nephew of B. Paino, who has been in this country for 11 years in the employ of his uncle, was married Sunday morning at St. Aloysius church by Rev. T. J. Leonard to Miss Angelina Santolucito, a niece of C. Santolucito. The bride has been in this country less than two years. Both are natives of Messina, Italy. The bride wore a brown suit. They were attended by the bride's uncle. They will reside on Mount Pleasant street.

Wright-Perry.

The following is taken from the Barre times of October 26:

At the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Perry of 108 Washington street, Miss Mildred Dulcina Perry was last evening united in marriage to Byron Andrew Wright of Hyde Park, there being present the relatives of the contracting parties and the B. S. B. class of the Baptist church, to the number of about fifty in all. The room in which the ceremony was performed was prettily decorated with a bank of evergreen and ferns, while in the adjoining rooms the colors were green and white and in the dining room yellow and white.

The guests were ushered by Miss Florence Allen and Marie Perry, a brother of the bride, and at 8.15 two little nieces of the bride, Dorothy Claire and Thelma Eva Perry, formed an aisle of ribbons, through which the bridal couple proceeded, to the strains of the wedding march as played by Miss Ethel Inglis. The officiating clergyman, Rev. W. E. Braisted, came first, followed by the groom and his best man, Ivan W. Perry, brother of the bride, then the bridesmaid, Miss Glee Wood, and, lastly, the bride leading on the arm of her father.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and the single ring service was used. The bride's gown was white embroidered lace net, and she carried bride's roses; and the bridesmaid's gown was pink messaline, and Miss Wood carried a bouquet of carnations. Following the ceremony, the bridal couple stood beneath the arch of green and received the company.

The collation was under direction of Mrs. Jennie Harrington, and it was served by girl friends of the bride, Beatrice Beach, Marion Perry, Bernice Holmes, Ruby Bradley, Mina McDonald, Gladys Gauthier, Lena Beagrie and Jettie Clark; while Della Ward had charge of the guest book and Gertrude Geake was in charge of the gift table. After being plentifully showered with confetti, Mr. and Mrs. Wright left on a wedding trip to places in Massachusetts, after which they will make their home in Hyde Park, where the groom is employed by the Morrisville, News and Citizen. The bride has a large number of friends who will wish her much happiness.

Among the out of town people attending were Mrs. A. C. McLean of Danville, mother of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Hill and Miss Della Ward of Plainfield; Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Perry and family of Plainfield, Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Perry of St. Johnsbury, and Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Cheney of Berlin.
